Northamptonshire has a rich shoe manufacturing history and is one of the worldâ€™s best known spots for the manufacture of high quality shoes. One of the most famous brands based in this part of the UK is Barker shoes, and these footwear options have been made in the area since 1880. Barker shoes started life as a cottage business and was set up by craftsman Arthur Barker, who wanted to make shoes which were waterproof in the rain.

During its impressive history, Barker shoes has provided boots for the British Army during the First World Ware and has also made moves into the womenâ€™s shoe manufacturing sector. To this today, Barker shoes is going strong and currently produces around 200,000 pairs of hand sewn shoes each and every year.
