Black suit are often referred to as all time clothing for men. It can be used at any occasion like funeral, business meets, workplace, gatherings, or parties. Menâ€™s closet is referred to as incomplete without this suit. There may be an array of suits but each of them does not has the explicit and classic charm as compared to the black one. Though America has a belief that this suit is not an appropriate one for official and social gatherings and should only be put up at funerals or dusk, other parts of the world consider it to be the best apparel anytime.

The main parts of this suit formally known as a complete suit are

* Shirt- shirt is the most important part of a suit and indeed should be matched up in a proper manner so as to maintain the grace of the suit. Light color shirts are always in fashion with this suit. White shirts are commonly preferred for such suits of dark texture.

* Jacket- jacket is another important part of the suit and is black colored for such suits. The jacket should be worn according to the body features. Most jackets are single breasted or double breasted along with pads at the shoulder.

* Trouser- the trouser is also black colored in a black suit. Trousers have the same texture as of the coat and can be worn below or above the waistline as per the comfort level of an individual.

* Waist coat- waist coats are considered to be an important part of a suit from old ages but a suit can be worn even without it. Adding a waistcoat is considered to the basic in wearing a suit.

* Buttons- buttons on the coat should preferably be buttoned at all times. However in some situations only the lower or the upper buttons are fastened. In a single breasted suit, formal suits are fastened where as the casual ones can be left unfastened. Golden colored or designer buttons are mostly preferred with these suits.

* Lapels- lapels of the suit can be narrow or broad depending on the style and cut of the suit. Lapels do have a button hole which is supposed to be adorned with a button flower making noticeable approach to the suit.

* Accessories- several accessories are important in order to make the suit look perfect. Black shoes, formal watches, pocket squares matched with shirt, necktie and others which hold the suit very rightly to present well

Owning a black suit is important for a man. It compliments a manâ€™s personality and is best suited at any and every occasion. The charisma of black suit never fades away and gradually makes a man more confident and royal in his appearance. Carrying a black suit should be in perfection so that it has a proper grace which can hold you to be a hero.
