Every formal event has a bunch of etiquettes which needs to be followed if one does not want to witness raised eyebrows. Weddings are also formal events and many times we are not sure about what to do and what not to do in order for the proceedings to be just perfect. However it is important to remember that there are unwritten rules of behavior not only for the bride and groom but also the guests and the in-laws. By having a basic understanding regarding the same it is possible to proceed smoothly and without ruffling any feathers. For the guests to the ceremony the requirements are simple enough.

If you have been invited to a wedding give a response as soon as possible. This is of utmost importance especially when the bride or groom family is preparing the guest lists and wants to be sure regarding the overall count. Also if there are children involved who have not been invited and may cause problems during the solemn ceremony ideally one should not bring them. Also etiquette demands that the gifts to the bride are sent a day before the big event. And in cases where the request is for no presents or some other specifications it is better to stick to that.

The brides traditionally pick up the bridesmaid gown so there is no reason not to stick to that. The rehearsal dinner is hosted by the oldsters of the groom. And it is the future mother-in-law of the bride who is responsible for sending invitations for the same to the brideâ€™s family. This is a duty which needs to be carried out within time otherwise it may lead to an embarrassing situation. Marriages are sacred bonds so utmost care has to be taken to fulfill all the related obligations for a smooth and trouble free relationship. send weddings anniversary gifts for husband and wife.

Traditionally the father and the mother of the prospective bride and groom bear the costs. However this does not give the elders a complete right to interfere during the wedding and consider the event as their own domain. The people who are to be joined in the holy matrimony also should have a say in the matters otherwise they will feel left out at their own wedding. Etiquettes should be followed for a proper marriage which gives the newlyweds a good start at life. By the way the brother of the bride does give a speech during the proceedings.
