Express Your Love with a Diamond Engagement Ring by Walker And Hall

Article published on January 17th 2012 | Shopping

Make the most special occasion of your life exceptionally memorable with exquisite wedding rings that will reflect your true love. Marriage is unquestionably the best day that one would come across in their life time and the accessories that you fill it up with will speak for years to come. Whenever your loved one sees your gift, it should remind them about your unconditional love in a special way. Diamonds are forever serene and they can be bought in different shapes to look unique when compared to others. You can always pick a design or get customized ones made on order.

While the widely popular engagement ring is adorned with a heart shaped diamond, there are other variants available too. They are cushion cut, radiant cut, marquise cut, asscher cut, pear cut, princess, round, oval and many more to appease individual expectations. The ring will be made to accommodate the design of your choice and usually four claws setting is used to provide the royal look. The quality of the diamond is found by its colour, clarity and the carat weight. The colours vary into different categories like D, E, F to J, K and more. While D is considered the most superior of all, the J series has more yellowish tint to it and it might look odd if attached onto a platinum ring.

The craftsmanship of carving the wedding ring will decide its outcome and it is your responsibility to choose the best for your partner. They can also be bought in pairs so as to make the betrothal function look flamboyant in style. It is wise to consult to know your brideâ€™s taste before you finalize the design because some women are obsessed with certain shapes like princess, emerald or heart. Popular manufacturers offer you an option to create your own ring by a simple step by step process.

Any customer will be delighted to have the choice using which they literally create their own gift. The exclusivity factor attracts buyers as individual tastes vary and the ring you choose will be owned only by your loved one. The pricing may vary based on 14k or 18k variants that you choose. While some like to have additional diamonds set in the shoulder of the ring, you can also pick a platinum or gold base that is clean with just one crisply cut stone adorning the top. Impress your soon-to-be spouse with such an elegant gift.
