When hosting a party, you need to make sure that everything is in order, from the catering, to the venue size, to the decor. It is already a hectic task to host a party, but why not make it easier for yourself and let the decor do most of the work.

When you choose the right decor, especially table runners, the mood of your event will transform any guest. With the right ambience and vibe, your event will have guests so in awe of your decor that any delay in food or misplaced chair will be overlooked as your guests will be too busy being mesmerised by the decor.

Table runners are a great way to decorate and spruce up any event. When choosing a table runner, youâ€™ll want to figure out how you want to portray your event. Given the choice between sequin table runners and printed table runners, youâ€™ll have to decide what fits best with your theme.

Sequin Table Runners

If hosting a wedding function, it is best to choose a sequin table runner for your event. You want your guests to remember the event and the beautiful decor, and the sequin table runner will do exactly that for you. Depending on your theme and colour scheme, you have your choice of elegant table runner colours from plum to white to light blue.

The sequin runners have sequins down the middle of the runner and each end comes together with a tassel. That extra bit of shine and movement adds to your table, giving your event some personality as well as eye appealing table glam.

Satin Table Runners

If you prefer a table runner without the sequins, then youâ€™ll want to look at the wide variety of satin table runners that are offered. Give your table the finish of a lifetime with this single piece of flowing and shiny cloth. The variety of colours the satin table runners are offered in will not only go with your table cloth and decor, it will add some glam to your tables without trying too hard.

Printed Table Runners

If youâ€™re holding a more casual event, then you may want to look at the chameleon table runner with tassels. This table runner adds a bold yet inviting statement to any table. If your event is a business event, or a causal dinner event with friends, youâ€™ll want to check out this table runner. It adds that extra bit of elegance that is needed for people to stop and take a second look.

More often than not table runners can be overlooked; after all, there are place settings, napkins, etc, to worry about. But when you invest in a table runner, you are cutting your work load in half. If you have a tight budget or donâ€™t have time to run out and get some tea lights or other decorations to decorate your table, a table runner will do the trick for you. Whether printed, shiny, or adorned with sequins, a table runner will add that extra bit of life to your table with little to no effort on your part
