There are many occasions that are fitting for Larimar jewelry. Some of the special events that are good times to wear Marahlago Larimar include: weddings, birthdays, school dances, and anniversary celebrations. Larimar jewelry is fitting for a wedding. There is an expression that a bride should wear, â€œSomething old, something new, something borrowed and something blue. This type of accessory is a blue color and can count as the brideâ€™s â€œsomething blueâ€• People that are attendir wedding can also wear Larimar bracelets and other accessories. They look great with a black dress as it brings a little bit of color to the outfit. This jewelry is fitting for very formal weddings as well as outdoor summer weddings that are a little bit more casual. Guests can wear something subtle that has a very small amount of Marahlago Larimar or an accessory that has a big stone adorned with other gems like rubies, diamonds, topaz, pearls, etc. Birthday parties are another time that women like to get a little bit dressed up and look their best. Wearing accessories like scarves, purses, etc accentuate oneâ€™s wardrobe and give them a sense of style that they would not normally have without the use of extras such as these. At parties women often compare jewelry, having something special to show the other guests at the party, makes the women feel important and included in the group. School dances such as prom and homecoming are other special events that warrant unique accessories. These blue colored Marahlago Larimar stones look best with a black or white dress as this helps their color truly stand out.

When women celebrate an anniversary with their partner, they tend to have a special dinner. At the event they often put on some of their finest clothing and find the perfect accessories to complete the outfit. Gems such as Marahlago Larimar are the perfect choice for an anniversary celebration. Larimar jewelry makes a great gift for many reasons. Some of the reasons that items such as Larimar bracelets are the perfect present are: the stone is rare, the items vary in price, and it is beautiful. The stones are very rare given that they are only found in a small mountain range in the Dominican Republic. They are difficult to extract from the ground as it is necessary to use small hand picks and shovels. Even after the stone has been removed from its place in nature it needs to be graded to determine its quality. Only 8-10% of the stone is high enough quality to use for Larimar bracelets and other styles of Marahlago Larimar. It is a great gift because it varies in price. Regardless of what type of budget the gift giver has, he or she will find a piece of jewelry that fits that price point. The last reason that Larimar jewelry makes a great gift is that it is beautiful. Regardless of the style of the gift recipient, they will appreciate the Marahlago Larimar. Larimar bracelets can suit any occasion and make a great gift.
