Giving wedding gifts to the newlyweds is a custom that is followed in most of the countries around the world. The wedding gifts signify the start of a new journey for two individuals as husband and wife.

There are many importances of wedding gifts. Other than signifying the beginning of a new journey, these gifts also stand for the love and blessings from those who have been invited at the wedding ceremony, especially the family members, relatives and friends. Other than that these gifts also act as a memorabilia of the wedding for the new groom and bride. For many years to come when the two individuals will become old, these gifts will make them feel nostalgic and will take back to the golden days of their wedding.

While some people offer money others will stick to gift items for wedding gifts. The money will be spent within a few days but the gifts would remain for a much longer period. If you are an important family member having close ties to the bride then you can gift her jewelries like a pendant, a necklace or a pair of ear rings. On the grooms side you can gift him a pair of cufflinks or an expensive tie pin.

Giving of jewelries will be pretty expensive. If you are not willing to spend that much on the wedding gifts then you can stick to formal gift items like a dinner set made of fine china or crystal or a cutlery set made of sterling silver. The basic idea is to gift them such items so that they can use it when they start living together.

Personalized gift items draw the maximum number of votes when it comes to wedding gifts. So you can gift the newlyweds small dolls. The USP of these dolls is that they will bear the faces of the newlyweds. These dolls are usually available in the wedding suits and gowns. It will be like giving themselves to them. And it will also act as a memorabilia of the wedding. If you are someone for whom money is not a problem, then you can think about unique ideas like sponsoring the wedding reception, getting a designer to design the brideâ€™s gown, a celebrated chef to lay the table or even book a romantic getaway for the newlyweds for their honeymoon. These unique gifts would definitely make the newlyweds feel special.
