How much do you love your daughter? And how close are you with her? As she is approaching graduation, what would be your gift plan to surprise her on this special eve? Graduation is the time when the parents realize of their children's stepping into a matured age. This acts as a link between innocence and prime of life. After graduation the little princess of yours can be addressed as a lady. She will be an independent person who will live her life in her own terms. It means she is mature enough to take the big decisions of her life and need not be guided through every step of it anymore, though she might ask you for advice anytime.

It's quite obvious for you to think of gifting her a box of chocolates or a big teddy, which she can cuddle. But at this juncture of life, the gifts which will contain some thoughtfulness and utility will be more appreciated by her. It should be something which will have timeless effect, as she will grow more matured with years.

One option we can suggest for your princess are photo frames. In the online gift stores, you will find lots of customized photo frames available only for graduation. One of the cutest and very trendy items is 'Hat style memory graduation photo frame box'. This is a combination of a box and a photo frame. The box is of velvet finish black colored one, which is shaped uniquely like a graduation hat. The black frame is smart and well matched with the design of the box. In the box there is a tussle attached as we find with the graduation hat. In the box you can store the small treasures which might re invoke the memories of those golden days in the college or university.

A 'Silverplated Graduation Photo Frame' also can be a very stylish gift to hold the memory of billion dollar moment of your daughter's graduation. This frame comes with a two tone matt and silver color, the top of it being black and bottom being in silver. A graduation hat in silver color has been etched at the top of the frame while the bottom has the word 'Graduation' engraved in black. This frame can contain a portrait style image of your daughter's graduation.

If you do not wish to present her something which will have particular touch of graduation, but rather be elegant and simple, go for 'Double sided Rotating Spinner Glass Photo frame'. Its uniqueness lies in its being double sided, that is, two of very special photos of your daughter can be shown through this single frame. This frame is made of thick glass which exudes a very unique and smooth look. This has an oval base which is again an exclusive feature of photo frames. The stand can be rotated 180 degree to show each photo at a time. This frame can be placed at your drawing room table to add aesthetic beauty as well as exhibit your daughter's grand moment of success.
