When you think it is the right time to take your relationship to the next level by proposing to the one you love, you will have to choose an engagement ring, and itâ€™s not as simple as you think. Engagement rings vary in styles and price range, usually dependent on the jeweler. For someone who has never gone diamond shopping before, this can be a really intimidating task. Here are some tips to help you out when choosing an engagement ring.

First, conventionally, men are supposed to spend salary great deal on the engagement ring. Today, however, customers are becoming more and more involved in the production and design of the ring, so that the prices can vary greatly. Consider your budget. The stress will start to kick in when you are dealing with the money part of the proposal. Keep in mind that itâ€™s not about getting the biggest and priciest ring out there. There are beautiful rings for all budget ranges.

One thing that can help you when choosing a design is looking at your partnerâ€™s everyday jewelry. The things she usually picks out herself would be really good indicators. Does your girl like small but elegant, or big and bold? If she wears rings, then that would be a good basis for your choice. If she prefers the ethnic over the modern then choose your ring accordingly.

Next, choose the right diamond for the ring. Most of your budget should ideally go into the diamond. One good way is to get a loose diamond to ensure you can have the band made accordingly. You may go for a 1.1 carat diamond on white gold over a .5 carat diamond on platinum. Remember the four Cs (cut, carat, clarity, color) when buying diamonds from jewelers in Indianapolis IN. Keep in mind that the jeweler is as important as their jewelry. Make sure only to deal with jewelers Indiana residents trust. Make sure they are honest and reputable. Also, find a jeweler that specializes in the type of engagement ring you plan to get. Never ever make a purchase over the phone and, as much as possible, avoid purchasing online.

Once you have purchased your ring, make sure to get insurance or a warranty for it. Donâ€™t worry if you are a bit overwhelmed by the unfamiliar world of Indiana jewelry, just follow these tips and you will be fine.
