Wedding Planner and Decorator in Mumbai by Ram Singh

Many times in the name of having a spectacular and unprecedented wedding we go for many an undue expenditure which is not at all necessary. By keeping your eyes open and considering the alternatives it is possible to cut out some things. For example if you start early and take the help of those close to you it is possible to do away with the wedding anniversary gifts ideas planner. Planners make for unnecessary expenditure especially when you yourself are more than capable. Write down everything you will require on the days leading up to the marriage including the D-day itself. Doing this brings out everything on the fore and becomes manageable.

A brand new wedding dress can also be removed from the list of your wedding must buys. Instead go for hand-me-downs which are both beautiful and help build relationships. If you borrow the gown of your mother or her predecessors you are surely going to make them very happy and also do some much needed savings. Also hiring singers and musicians for the entertainment purpose of your guests is mostly not needed. Instead you may call on your friends and even members of the family to chip in with their contribution. This brings a personal touch to the proceedings.

That way the event of the marriage does not remain cool and professional but rather exudes warmth and spontaneity which any well-knit gathering should. Weddings are personal affairs and it is up to you to make it a budget friendly success. Also cut out on a decorator for the venue, make everybody chip in instead. Decorative pieces can be handmade and used to increase the beauty of the occasion. Sometimes we do not even realize our own talents. So, move ahead with confidence and you are going to be amazed by your own capabilities.

There are ways to save on wedding food and beverages too if you are inclined that way. Simply do away with a gala dinner with a full course meal. Hold a new age wedding ceremony instead where you the guests are invited to a lunch. Or you can even have a setting just like a cocktail party where an assortment of food and drinks gets served. Be assured those you invite will surely love it very much and congratulate you on for your out-of-the-box ideas. Once you cut out all the splurges and go for next best alternatives you will realize the futility of having them at the first place.
