Careless driving let us down to discuss the notice of intended prosecution (NIP). The release of a NIP is in agreement with the traffic act of 1988 and requires registered keepers of the automobile to recognize who was lashing the vehicle at the time when offence took place. If you are Driving without due care and attention, it can lead to death as well. You cannot drive your vehicles like anything; otherwise, you have to face serious consequences for the same. The hit and run accidents can even lead to the death of human beings. According to the concerned department of transport it has been figured out that approximately 3 percent were caused by hit and dash drivers. Therefore, any type of affluent trial is going to pivot on exact proof of who was driving. According to the act, if the keeper of the vehicle cannot remember who was in fact driving the vehicle at the time of offence, then he is also liable to prosecution. In such particular cases you need to get a competent and specialist driving offence solicitor who can serve your purpose well.

However, a common misconception that needs to be pointed out by the community is that NIPs are simply issued for speeding offences and in meticulous cases of camera fines. Reckless driving should be avoided to take care of lives around us. Careless driving includes many aspects. Under this, you can also include dangerous driving along with mobile phone offences. Careless driving sometimes also includes breaking the rules of traffic light offences and speeding on the top priority list especially if you are considering of the youth population. The list of careless driving is by no means exhaustive and highlights the wide varieties of offences on a whole. Hence, it can cover wide range of intended prosecution. You need to be very honest in case of hit and run accidents that results in serious injury or even death in many of the cases.
