Filing Whiplash Claims: Seven Easy Steps by Julia Roger

Article published on July 13th 2012 | Society

Are you thinking of filing for whiplash claims? Well, then the first thing you would like to know is what the process essentially involves. To help you out, we have prepared a list of suggestions.

1. Immediately after the accident, you need to get the police informed about the whole thing. In doing so, obtain as much information as possible about the driver/drivers. This should ideally include personal details like their name, address, insurance company, and registration number.

2. As you begin to encounter the first symptoms of whiplash, seek medical attention immediately. This ensures that you are treated well for the injuries. Additionally, undergoing thorough medical checkup is one of the most essential prerequisites in substantiating whiplash claims.

3. Once you have recovered from the injuries well, get in touch with a Whiplash compensation specialist or solicitor right away. There is hardly any dearth of such professionals in the market today. Therefore, all you need to do is pick the right one up.

4. The next important step lies in proving your claims that there was a third party involved. You should also need to prove that it was because of the guilty party that you suffered the whiplash.

5. Your solicitor should ideally arrange for medical examination once the whole process of evidence gathering is underway. Medical examination is one of the most important steps in the Whiplash Claims process. This will invariably help verify the psychological and physical extent of damage.

6. Once you and your solicitor have managed to establish the severity of damage, the latter will create a cost schedule, which determines the economic losses suffered by you because of the injury. From loss of employment or missed wages to medical expenses-, the losses may vary widely.

7. When the claims specialist you have hired has finished negotiating the compensation sum, your claim can actually be settled. So how exactly would you receive the payments? Well, you will be given a check once the legal formalities and proceedings get over. And just in case you are wondering if the final payment covers 100% of the sum claimed for, let us inform you- yes, it actually does!
