If you manage a small or large business and want to get US government contracts then you will first need to turn into a federal contractor. A Federal contractor is a registered business that can supply the prescribed products and services to the US government or its approved bodies.

However, you will need to take several steps before you can turn into a federal contractor. You will need to register your business with the specific branch of the government. Examples are defense, aerospace, communications, engineering, healthcare, or any of the many fields open to private businesses.

You can also turn into a federal sub-contractor which will entitle you to work under the orders of an actual contractor. However, once you turn into a federal contractor then you need to follow all laws set by by the Office of Federal Contract Compliance Programs or OFCCP.

In addition, you also need to display state federal labor law posters at your workplace that displays the latest NLRA notice issued by the National Labor Relations Board or NLRB. This poster contains vital information on employee rights, job safety and health, as well as several other related notices that have been updated.

The federal labor law poster should be displayed at a location that is easily visible by employees and visitors alike. In case you have Spanish speaking employees then you will also need to display the poster in Spanish too. You should opt for a poster that has additional pouches on the side so that you can insert related information without any problems as well as update the information as needed.

In addition to such federal compliance posters, you will also need to display state labor law posters as well as appropriate safety signs to ensure that your workplace is safe at all times. An online store that offers a host of services including posters, forms, signs, greeting cards, and various accessories should be perfect for all your office and compliance needs.

You can purchase the required federal compliance posters as well as subscribe to newsletters to keep up to date with the latest changes in state and federal laws. As a federal contractor, this will be of great help since you will not need to worry about missing out on important changes or deadlines regarding any changes in current laws.

You can certainly ensure that your federal contracting business gets off to a smooth start by purchasing and displaying the federal labor law poster prominently at your workplace.
