Big bang! Microsoft has finally shown itâ€™s reluctant towards Windows XP love. Inability of Windows Live Essentials to run on Windows XP reveals the fact. Making a difference the former is get-set-ready with Windows 7 or Windows Vista with Service Pack 2 on your computer. The consolidated package holding Messenger, Photo Gallery, Mail, Writer, Family Safety, Toolbar, Outlook Connector, Office Live Add-in, and Microsoft Silverlight is a dream come true experience for Windows users. Just a live Internet connection along with a compatible browser will serve the purpose. A graphics card supporting DirectX 9 or higher is required for the Windows Live Movie Maker to work well.

Existing Hotmail has got a new look and new power under the Windows Live Essentials. It has become faster, almost 10 times if rumors have to be believed. Whether you're opening a message or sending photos, Hotmail is ready to serve you with electrify speed. Connect Facebook, LinkedIn, Gmail, AOL Mail, and Outlook to Hotmail and stay in touch with all your friends. Not only this, it reveals their status, and also brings the chat options, so no need to move back to Facebook. Even more, manage all your e-mail accounts with the Hotmail. Instead of signing in for different accounts, you can have control on entire communication personal, social and professional with just a single window. All is real and dynamic; you can send messages to anyone on the individual accountâ€™s contact list. Photo Gallery and Movie Maker are to give you hobbies a professional touch. Create your own panorama, merge shots with Photo Fuse and be the director your movies. Once done, share those using Facebook, YouTube or other social networking and video sharing sites.

Although, Microsoft has added simplicity to the suit, but issues are never an exception, well understood fact accepted by technocrats. To let you sail easy and in a hassle-free manner, the giant has created Microsoft Certified Network Partner. Business members holding the certification are catering the Windows Live Help service to knock-down problems remotely over the Internet. They can guide to handle temporarily blocked account, signing in and security related issues. You may ask experts to install an antivirus program and scan your system to abdicate viruses or malware so that Internet scammers donâ€™t get access to your password and other vital stuffs. Experts can diagnose and fix problems related to the installation/uninstallation of Windows Live Essentials programs. They can sort out problems associated with the addition, import, editing and publishing of videos and photos in the Movie Maker. They can successfully configure the camera and other digital devices from which you need to transfer the digital content. Likewise, you can take instant help to resolve problems with other components including Writer, Messenger, SkyDrive and more.

Why to call Windows Live Support? Exploit the knowledgebase available on the portal and implement those, seek help from video tutorials, if needed. See how to secure your mail, get out of virus and spam issues, create and share blogs, set up an FTP site for pictures in blog and update the blog themes, activate and configure Family Safety settings to protect kids from unwanted contents, and do more without any external help.
