Article Side

Importance of Company Check Software by Jason Bronce

Article published on June 22nd 2012 | Software

Most businesses require a lot of check leaves to fulfill their payment commitments to their employees, vendors, and to complete transactions. There is normally a waiting period at banks and companies who supply checks. If there are errors, then the waiting period becomes even longer. All these problems are solved when businesses opt to use checks software. This gives them the ability to create checks as and when it is needed. There is no need to wait upon the convenience of an outside entity anymore. You are able to fulfill your commitments on time. Moreover if you are a company who uses a lot of check books, there is a lot of money saved when you use a company check software.

Benefits Of A Check Software

A company check software allows you to print out your checks on the computer. However since there are many companies offering checks software in the market, it is up to you to do adequate research and ensure that you have invested in a software that serves your purpose. The better check writing software applications offer multiple templates and designs that you can choose from. They also have a print preview feature. They usually provide a magnetic ink character recognition or MICR capability. If this feature is not available, then there is the added expense of investing in check stock since all financial institutions require the MICR numbers and special characters at the bottom of a check leaf. Although check writing software also provides additional options like home and business bookkeeping abilities, those should not be the focus when investing in this software. The paper used should be check stock and you have to invest in a laser printer with good quality toner containing at least 30% iron oxide. The use of MICR toner cartridges will ensure that the checks printed out are of a quality that will be accepted by banks and financial institutions.

Features Of A Check Software

The advantage of using a company check software is that it is a one-time investment. This software is easy to use and can be used on your regular Macintosh or Microsoft system. There is no need to have additional training to use this software. This software usually works with your accounting system. The check printing software saves time since it only takes seconds to print out the checks. It protects your company from check fraud losses by providing fraud avoidance safeguards within the software. It is possible to print claims checks, payroll checks, expense checks, or any kind of check that you want.

Payroll Check Printing Software

The payroll check printing software is useful for small and big businesses alike. It is extremely useful to the accounting manager and accounts section of a company since it automatically calculates net pay, social security tax, federal withholding tax, state and local taxes, and Medicare. The payroll check printing software also supports user defined tax, income, and deduction categories. It also supports different pay periods and prepares forms W2 and W3, 941, and 940-EZ.

Article Source:
http://www.articleside.com/software-articles/importance-of-company-check-software.htm - Article Side

Jason Bronce - About Author:
Find more information a checks software, company cheque software and a payroll check printing software at our website. Please visit here chequesoftware.com.

Article Keywords:
checks software, company cheque software, payroll check printing software

You can find more free articles on Article Side. Sign up today and share your knowledge to the community! It is completely FREE!