PDFPro - Not Just Another iPad PDF Reader App by Terry Littrell

Article published on April 6th 2012 | Software

Gone are days when laptops were gladly used as portable and handy computers on the go. Today, they have been replaced by tablet PCs and above all the most revolutionary Apple iPad. Apple iPad has been one of those innovative gadgets that set, and are, milestones themselves in the world of technology. PDF reader users have keenly been using iPad as its very handy, portable and lighter than laptops. The craze of Apple's tablet shot up immediately. With nearly 3 million of the newest iPad (Retina Display) already sold over just 3 months is a proof enough of its fascination among users.

Apple iPad have set a cult in the electronic gadget market by being revolutionary. The iPad speaks for itself and is a brand by itself today. The sleek design, smoothest and quick-responsive touch sensitivity, visually alluring graphics, thin and light to carry, and much more are among the unique selling points of an iPad. Apple devices are instrumental in creating their own identity among gadget-geeks as well as non-gadget geeks. Nearly millions of people today own an Apple product, making iOS widely used and extremely popular. Due to the massive demand and ownership of iPads, the iPad application development sector expanded substantially. Application development companies employed the best developers in market to design and develop original and innovative apps for the iPad. Extensively used by many for ebook reading due to its quality-rich display which just got better with the now crystal clear Retina Display iPad. Moreover, iPad PDF reader apps were developed by many third party companies to offer PDF readers with a good reading experience. One of the best PDF reader for iPad is PDFPro Version 2.1.1. A simple-to-use application enables you to edit and personalize a PDF through its various useful tools. Its unmatchable features make it different from the rest of the available iPad PDF reader applications. Viewing, browsing, an editing with PDFPro iPad reader app is a child's play. The application comprises of highly useful features which make customization of a PDF hassle free.

The PDF reader app offers attributes such as zoom in/zoom out, highlighted searched text, import PDFs, export PDFs, voice tool and much more. PDFPro iPad reader app consists of phenomenal functionalities and offers a unique feature of adding signature in the PDF. PDFPro version 2.1.1 looks after the security of your PDFs, by enabling the password protection feature. The latest version unleashed the import and export attributes which make importing and exporting PDFs quick and easy.
