As the heading suggests, it has something to do with the internet and connecting many computers so that they work in accord. Firstly, let us know the meaning of the two words and what they mean together. Since every thing that has something to do with computers is essentially a program, a server is a program that recognizes a request for a task and does that task on behalf of another â€œclientâ€• program.

Most commonly, it is a computer dedicated to only this task. hosting dubai thus allows individual people or organizations to put up websites that can be accessible to the public.

Server hosting can be of many types:

Dedicated hosting â€“ here, the form that server hosting takes is all encompassing. The client program in this case, does not share a server with any other program but hires it all to itself thereby increasing performance and efficiency.

Free server hosting â€“ in this case, organizations or individuals need not pay the server for taking help for putting up a website. This is quite different form the normal and expected path. Costs in this case are met through advertisements.

Shared server hosting â€“ as the name is self explanatory, many clients make use of a single server in posting its own mark on the internet. Here, the clients are obviously partitioned and do not spill over into each otherâ€™s turf.Clustered hosting â€“ in this type of hosting, the responsibility of hosting the websites is spread over more than one computers to make it more efficient.Reseller server hosting â€“ here, the client is given a bit more liberty in that he or she can choose to lease out the hard disc space and bandwidth allotted, on his or her own terms.
