Social bookmarking is the best way for Internet users to stock away, search, organize and manage bookmarks of web pages on the Internet with the help of meta data. It is the easiest way for online users to share and accumulate information that they enjoy and this can have a powerful viral effect as social bookmarking software automates the task of individually bookmarking each site and incorporates the major social bookmark networks into a streamlined process for users which increases the exposure of content.

Social bookmarking is one of the most effective ways to:

* rise to the top of the search engine rankings

* allow for website owners to increase their search engine rankings and visibility with minimal of effort

* improve your visitor numbers rapidly

* cut that time down to a tiny fraction of what you would spend doing it manually

* allow people to share content from around the web with other like-minded people on the Internet

Social bookmarking is for bookmarking items you think are interesting, websites that others would want to check out. It's not a way for self-promotion or sales so balance your travail. Some of social bookmarking is in original content. If your site has a regular flow of original content in a form of articles or blog material, submit that manually. It is advisable that not use automated tools to submit to social bookmarking sites. Be patient and start slow. You have to be sure that you tag your website in Google's alert system and watch your links grow. This is a slow and tedious process but if it is done right, your website will benefit from social bookmarking as part of your global search engine optimization efforts.

There are so many ways and devices that can be used to access information online, but social bookmarking is creating a shared standard. This shared standard has the advantage of making web searches easier and faster. It enables users to store that information in a way that can be used by a similar user without the fuss of having to wade through unrelated content.
