What Do You Know About Design Proofing?

by Arlen Arnold

Article published on January 14th 2012 | Software

As you know, now Internet is becoming a lifeline for everybody. So, every business owner wants his business presence on Internet. To make your online presence, you need some medium. And this medium helps you to make your online presence among all the people. And this medium is called your company's â€œwebsiteâ€•. For designing a website, most of the people hire web designing company. Now here the design proofing concept comes in action. For design your business website, you have to tell all the details of your business, which you want in your website. But this is not a simple process, as it is very time consuming process.

Suppose you are business owner and you are hiring some web design company for your website's design. And according to your needs and requirements for the home page design, you will have to send an email to the manager of that company. After that the manager of that company read your email and explains all the content of that email to the team lead for designing the website. Team lead then explains all the requirements to the web designer. This process may create lots of confusion. After that when designer designs your home page design, because of lots of communication channel he may not able to design the accurate design which you wanted for your website's home page. After completing his job, the designer will email the home page design to you for proofing. And in case if you are not convinced with this. Then again you will send an email to the manager regarding the changes of the design. Now, again the same process happens and confusion may occur again. So, in that case design approval process becomes very lengthy process. This will waste lots of your time. So, to proof your design it is necessary, that the web designer should understand carefully all the needs and requirements of his client.

Nowadays many online proofing software are available in the market. And this software help designer to easily approve their design. Basically design proofing is a process to reduce the communication gap between the designer and client. Proofing tool helps you to easily proof your design. In proofing tool there are just few easy steps a designer has to follow. In this web designer firstly upload the file which he wants to approve, and then send it to the client. Then client will see that file, and if he wants any changes in the design then he mark the comments and add notes and share that proof with the designer. Designer then see that same file on same platform and make changes according to the client. This is very simple and few minutes process. So, for proof your design you need not to wait for number of days, with the help of this tool you can proof your design with in a minute only.

Article Source:
http://www.articleside.com/software-articles/what-do-you-know-about-design-proofing.htm - Article Side

Arlen Arnold - About Author:

If you are searching for a a online proofing software, then I would like to suggest you proofing tool ProofMini. It is one of the best a proofing tool to proof your design easily.

Article Keywords:

Online proofing, proofing tool, Design proofing

You can find more free articles on Article Side. Sign up today and share your knowledge to the community! It is completely FREE!