How to Know if Your Telephone Psychics are Reliable by Yuri Romanov

Article published on April 2nd 2012 | Spirituality

As many people have already started believing in psychics and psychic readings, more and more people are seeking their help in order to find or provide answers to their questions about life, love, career, and relationships. And because of this, many people are also trying their luck in the area of fortune telling. And today, there are more psychics who are ready to give enlightenment to individuals.

And because of the hectic pace of peopleâ€™s lives in todayâ€™s time, it has become more difficult for people to have to go out of their way or insert in their schedules seeing a psychic. That is why telephone psychics today have evolved and phone psychic readings have emerged.

This is a positive thing to happen to the psychic industry. It is a sign of evolution. However, since psychic telephone keeps the querent (the one asking questions) from seeing the psychicâ€™s face, it has become a lucrative job for fake psychics who are only after stripping off the customers of their money.

So how can one be safe from such a modus? What must people look for or watch out for in order not to fall victims into their crimes?

Psychic Guild, the leading website in Australia for giving psychic advice, horoscope, and astrological signs, has gathered some important tips to make sure that oneâ€™s psychic reading by phone is real.

1. A fake telephone psychic will usually ask for the querentâ€™s birthdate and star sign. And the main reason for this is so they can look up the dayâ€™s horoscope, change it a little bit to make it seem more relevant, and then claim it them as their own reading.

2. There is also a tendency for psychics to ask where the querent lives. Again, this is in order for them to search what is currently happening in the area. This is the advantage of not being seen by the querent. The fake psychic can just search the internet.

3. Be wary of psychics who say that by buying their stuff like candles and giving them your jewels will bring back a lover or reverse a spell. Spells and curses are not true but are very useful tools for psychics to have control over the querent.

4. Do not easily believe a telephone psychic who claims to be known in the world or have done psychic readings on Hollywood stars. If you havenâ€™t heard a bit about them, and all they have is a website, then they are most probably fakes.

5. A psychic who does not like being asked questions about the querentâ€™s past and future lives is a fake. If they are really true, they can say a lot of things that only the querent knows about.

6. If the psychicâ€™s readings are all too good to be true, then they must be fakes. They will try to say a lot of things that will only please the person so that they will come back for more readings.

In this time and age, it is very necessary for people to be extra careful as con artists are everywhere. Psychic readings are a serious business and telephone psychic readings should also be as serious.
