Buying the Right Sports Trophy by Joel Singh

Article published on December 9th 2011 | Sports

A victory, no matter how big or how trivial is something that everyone cherishes forever. Being rewarded for hard work and all the efforts is one of the most delightful things in life. Whether you are being rewarded for your excellent performance or beating someone at a completion, receiving recognition for the same gives us a feeling of satisfaction and enables us to take pleasure in work and competitions. Everyone likes to have a memento that represents their moment of glory. A prize, a trophy a shield or anything similar is a sheer delight to receive. Anyone who has worked hard expects a good looking souvenir to commemorate their efforts. A not-so-good-looking trophy may seem trivial to some but it definitely tarnishes the memory of the victory.

Taking the example of a sports event, after all the tension and excitement of the last few minutes and the deciding moment, all the spectators have eyes only for the winner and their gleaming trophies and shields and medals. Thus, it becomes the responsibility of the organisers to present the winners trophies befitting their victory. An ideal sports trophy should depict strength and excellence in the sport. It should definitely have something to do with the sport. The designer of the trophy can take up any equipment or object that best represents the sport or the spirit of the sport. Using very lavish or too intricate designs is not advisable. A trophy should be such that the receiver feels proud in receiving it and can cherish it for a long time to come.

There are several kinds of awards that can be presented like a trophy, a shield, a plaque, a sash, a cup, glass stemware etc. The designer of the award should make it as authentic as possible. It is best for a trophy to have an insignia of the awarding body. Another thing that needs special attention while making a trophy or any other thing to be presented to a winner is the spelling of the name of the receiver. No one likes their name to be misspelled and that too on a memento that signifies their victory, it can be very insulting.
