Important Tips about Hunting Kudu by James Blee

Article published on June 12th 2012 | Sports

Hunting kudu is quite common among the hunters. More and more hunters are tempted to hunt them. A recent survey has revealed a striking fact that hunting kudu is quite popular in Africa and is a must for people visiting there. Not only in Africa, they are also found in a variety of other places and the species of kudus differ too. This is the reason why this animal has attained such status of the most desired game animal for hunting.

Another reason that has escalated this animal to such heights as a hunting animal is its prevalence in large numbers. Be it in Africa or Texas, they are found in large numbers which make it an easy target to aim at. Although jeep safaris through the forests and hunting them provide you with enough thrills and chills, hunting kudu is most enjoyable when they are chased by foot. Although finding the calves is not a difficult task, the experienced hunters love to make their sport riveting by trying to find the bigger ones which are not easily found.

The more the mode of kudu hunting is made challenging, the more is the rush of adrenaline for the hunters. First of all, one needs to know about the places where their availability will be more. It may be in the plains or the hills. To make the hunting simple and expedient for them, many hunters prefer dambo for their place of action. A recent survey about the kudus has revealed about their inquisitive nature.

The best time for hunting kudu is the daytime when they take rest. Places underneath shady trees or near water pools are the prime zones of their occurrence as they drink loads of water. Also, the intensity of light is high; finding them in the woods and grasses becomes uncomplicated. They are very poor in camouflaging themselves and thus easily fell prey to the hunters.
