Article published on March 15th 2012 | Sports

Do you keep tabs of the local rugby scene? Are you familiar with the Glendale Raptors and its players? If you're a fan, you surely want to know more about your heroes. Through the help of technology, you and other locals who share your interests can access a reliable source of information about your rugby team. As a hub of information, the rugby team's website provides these essential facts you need to know about their activities and offers for supporters.

About the Teams

Both the Glendale Raptor Men and Women have a website where fans like you can learn about their team and roster of players. You can browse their homepage, read about their fixtures and results, and know the latest about the Raptors Squad. If you or someone you know is interested, you can also read on how to join the team. Click on the online application form, indicate the position you're applying for, provide the necessary details, and submit. They will contact you as soon as they have received and assessed your application.

Schedule and Tickets

If you want updates about the teams' schedule, go online and open their website. They post the schedule and indicate which matches are played in the park and can be watched for free. Some matches are also played in the stadium and require tickets unless otherwise noted. Details on matches to be played in the opponent's stadium are also posted on the net. You can click on the local matches and buy tickets online, too. This offers convenience instead of personally going to the local ticketing stores to reserve seats.

Rugby Events

Information on planned Colorado rugby events is also featured on the teams' websites. These indicate the time the gates will be opened and when the specific matches will start. You can buy tickets for two matches or simply purchase a two-day ticket online. Children under twelve are usually admitted for free in these games. Those who will purchase ten or more tickets will receive a ten percent discount on their entire order.

Youth Rugby Programs

Rugby is an engaging sport for any age, gender, size, and speed. Those who want to learn the sport can join year-round rugby programs offered for children aged five to eighteen. These activities teach kids the drills and skills necessary for playing rugby Colorado residents love. The youth will work on sharing, communication skills, and respect, developing their personalities while learning the second most popular sport worldwide.

Merchandise

If you're a true-blue Colorado rugby fan, you would surely sport apparel, keychains, and stickers during the match to show your solid support for your local rugby team. You can find these merchandise items in their website.
