Benefits of Using Android Applications

by Prajyot Mainkar

Article published on February 13th 2012 | Technology

Google has made revolutionary changes in the market as far as applications of smart phones or tablet PCs are concerned. They have become very popular in a short span of time and their popularity is increasing continuously throughout the world. As it is Linux based open source operating system, there are no any kinds of license fee to purchase them. This is freely available for anyone. This is one of the biggest advantages of these applications. Being free and open source, anyone can make changes in them and update it as per the current needs and requirements for the user. So, these applications are consistently updated as per the requirements.

There are various blogs and websites available over the Internet where anybody can get the latest developments about Android operating system as well as applications. It is very helpful for developers who can implement additional functionalities and test their performance. These things are not possible in case of licensed applications. Although, Google has patent of Android operating system but they provide its applications in open environment so that they could be updated by any developers according to end usersâ€™ specific needs and requirements. You can also download various kinds of applications on these websites or blogs as per your needs.

After using Android applications, you can also give your feedback in terms of benefits and disadvantages of a particular application through their official forum or blogs. Your valuable feedback is treated to improve the performance of existing applications so there could be no any major issues in it. If you have not used these applications earlier, you could get important and valuable feedback of users who are already using it. You will able to contact to large number of users through various forums and blogs. This will give you the right as well as authentic information about the application which will inspire you to use it as per your specific needs and requirements.

If you do not get satisfaction as per your requirements, you can discontinue with the application. Moreover, you can give valuable suggestions and feedbacks to the manufacturer about the issues which lead to discontinuation. This will help manufacturer to make some changes in it and make available its improved version which are completely erroneous free and convenient in using. Along with various blogs and websites, there are various reviews website where you can get reviews of various mobile applications or tablet PCs. If you have not used Android application so far, you must use it. You will find it more convenient and user friendly in comparison to other OS applications.

Article Source:
http://www.articleside.com/technology-articles/benefits-of-using-android-applications.htm - Article Side

Prajyot Mainkar - About Author:
Androcid is an ideal platform for A HREF http://www.androcid.com/category/android-apps/>android application /A>reviewers as you can read out reviews of latest android phones and applications. You can find out regular updates about these phones here. For more information please visit: A HREFhttp://www.androcid.com/> android news/A>

Article Keywords:

android apps,android mobile, android tutorials, android news, android app reviewer, android workshop, newest android, android app development

You can find more free articles on Article Side. Sign up today and share your knowledge to the community! It is completely FREE!