Recent studies suggest that mobile apps have overtaken the web usage, as they are easy and convenient to use. No matter what is your need, you can find an app for it. A huge number of handy applications are available at free of cost in the Android Market and in the App Store. Let me introduce a few here.

MetaTrader 4: This is an iPhone app that could help Forex investors trade on the go. This app is the mobile version of the popular desktop software of the same name. MetaTrader 4 provides users complete control over their account by letting them access financial markets and technical analysis, so that they can stay up-to-date with news and events. To facilitate technical analysis, real-time interactive charts are there with 7 timeframes - M1, M5, M15, M30, H1, H4 and D1. At present more than 350 Forex brokers are available in the app and it supports all types of execution modes. With a Help area for guiding the users, this app would look even better I think. MetaTrader 4 is compatible with iPhone, iPod touch, and iPad and it requires iOS 4.0 or later. Download it from here: http://itunes.apple.com/us/app/metatrader-4/id496212596

Chaikin Power Tools: Chaikin Power Tools for iPhone has already been featured in our article. Now let me introduce the Android version of it. It is another utilitarian app that could help investors a great deal. Like its iOS counterpart, Chaikin Power Tools for Android provides all the needed details about stocks and buying advices. Users can add up to 20 stocks to their watch list to monitor their movements in the market. For the technical analysis, Chaikin Power Tools has intra-day and 6-month Charts, and Fundamentals. If the users want detailed reports for stocks, they could buy it from the app. However, the developers need to make the interface a bit more vibrant, to make this app to become as popular as its iPhone version. Chaikin Power Tools requires Android 2.2 or up. Download it from here: https://market.android.com/details?id=com.viaden.winner

Brilliant Quotes & Quotations: This app has over 2700 great quotes from over 180 famous people to boost up the morale of the users. The impressive feature about this app is, users could easily find the quote they want as they are classified based on the authors and categories. There is also a handy search feature to let users search by quotes and authors. The Top 50 section of Brilliant Quotes & Quotations explores the quotes liked by the users around the world. If a quote has an error, users can report it straight from the app and they can also submit their favorite quotes to the developer. This app has already been popular in the Android Market and let us hope that the developers would include more authors from around the world in the future. Brilliant Quotes and Quotations requires Android 1.6 and up. Download it from here: https://market.android.com/details?id=lammar.quotes

All these three apps are not meant to be fun and they have a purpose. If you are fed up with games, you should give them a try. As these apps are available for free, they wonâ€™t dry your purse.
