Does Reality Programs Have the Edge over Other Desi TV Shows by Melissa Smith

Article published on January 5th 2012 | Television

We all love to watch that entertains us, it can be movies TV programs, reality show, news, or can be kids' animated programs. But what is more exciting to know is which TV program holds the top spot over others. As we are TV fanatic, any genre of television program will entertain us so what is the most entertainment TV show that we love the most. There are numerous of south asian channels aired in regional and local languages and all of them deliver some kind of entertainment programs but what stimulates us the most are the reality programs. These TV shows gives us new twist in our entertainment and ranks over other shows. The reason is first of all they are not scripted and secondly they are not directed while the actors or the celebs are left to play in their natural flow. So, what is so special in such programs, these shows are inspirational to the future generation where the youngsters get a chance to give their best and expose the hidden talent within.

Shows such as "India got talent "or other dance or signing programs, have given much needed opportunity to the young generation and became and instant platform to give the world an unknown short of the title. On the other hand reality programs such as gaming shows like "Kaun Banega Crorpati" have given the layman or the common person to win mammoth prize money of 5 crores by answering13 general IQ questions. While program such as "Bigg Boss" aired in colors tv channels has given a new taste to enjoy the backbiting and filthy remarks passed by the contestants to one another. The general viewing audiences have enjoyed every bit of such TV programs. These programs have built a different platform both for regular viewing audiences as well as for the contestants who are looking to make their careers in the respected field. Frankly speaking, the reality programs draw more audiences and generate handsome revenue than others. In fact they rule the small screen with their unique blend of reality roles and unscripted attitude.

It is only the reality shows that have managed to turn the tables round by giving new twist in the world of entertainment. Although they are dozens of desi TV shows that are entertaining the audiences for decades but they are none like the reality programs. At the end no matter what it takes to make the perfect TV programs it is always the reality program that have reigned peopleâ€™s mind and became the true source of entertainment.

Article Source:
http://www.articleside.com/television-articles/does-reality-programs-have-the-edge-over-other-desi-tv-shows.htm - Article Side

Melissa Smith - About Author:

Melissa Smith working for http://www.orderdesitv.net/ has given a brief explanation about reality a desi TV that why they rule the entertainment world and hold an edge over other TV programs.

Article Keywords:
desi tv, south asian channels, colors tv channels, hindi channels usa

You can find more free articles on Article Side. Sign up today and share your knowledge to the community! It is completely FREE!