Article published on June 5th 2012 | Travel

Gatwick is the Londonâ€™s second largest airport. It is one of the most advanced and hi-tech airports of the world. Gatwick is also known as the Londonâ€™s second busiest airport. It is also a main hub for British Airways. The airport was previously owned and operated privately since 1st April 1966 by BAA however it was sold to GIP (Global Infrastructure Partners) on 3rd December 2009. GIP also owns the London City airport. Gatwick is located ideally at a distance of 47 kilometers on the South of London. Gatwick has the worldâ€™s busiest single use runway that allows more than 52 aircraft movements in an hour. Gatwickâ€™s airport transfer services are ranked among the best in the world.

Gatwick witnesses more than 33 million passengers passing through its gates each year. The airport is equipped with all the latest amenities that are second to none. There are facilities for solo travelers, business travelers, disabled travelers, corporate travelers and just about any kind of travelers. Gatwick even has the facilities for families with kids that include baby changing, play area and a lot more. The airport transfers are offered by various reputed transportation companies which have their own booking desks in the arrivals lounge. Airport has 2 terminals that have the capacity to serve more than 35 million passengers in a year. The airlines at Gatwick fly to hundreds of destinations around the world.

Outside the terminal, there are a large number of companies offering airport cab services from Gatwick to all major and minor locations across the country that include cities, towns and villages. Gatwick has its own rail station. Gatwick Express, the airports exclusive train provides transfer services to all main locations of United Kingdom. Many other companies also provide train services to popular destinations of the country. The airport offers superior class amenities such as self service check-in desks, baggage facilities, exchange bureaus, shops, cafÃ©, bars and a lot more. The self service check-in kiosks are installed at Gatwick airport by the popular airline companies of the world.

If you are looking for taxi services to and from Londonâ€™s Gatwick airport, CrossCab is one of the leading cab companies of UK. They provide online booking solutions that make it easy and convenient for you to book your airport transfer cab prior to your arrival at the airport in order to avoid any kind of future inconvenience. The business as well as solo travelers prefer to avoid the hassle of looking for transportation facilities at the airport, and therefore choose to book their airport transfer vehicles before their arrivals. This not only helps in saving time but also lets them reach their destination whether hotel or private residence in time.

CrossCab is the best choice for making online taxi bookings. They are rated as one of the best online cab booking firms of the UK. CrossCab has been providing comprehensive online transportation booking services across UK since 2007. They offer special airport cab services from all major airports of UK to all cities, towns and villages of UK. They are known for the standard of their service. Their vehicles include latest models of cabs which are regularly maintained and MOT (Ministry of Transport) tested for passenger safety and comfort.

Article Source:
http://www.articleside.com/travel-articles/a-quick-guide-to-london-s-gatwick-airport.htm - Article Side

Jocasta Marvin - About Author:
The a airport transfers are offered by various reputed transportation companies which have their own booking desks in the arrivals lounge. If you are looking for a taxi services to and from Londonâ€™s Gatwick airport, CrossCab is one of the leading cab companies of UK.

Article Keywords:
airport transfer, airport transfers, airport cab services, taxi services

You can find more free articles on Article Side. Sign up today and share your knowledge to the community! It is completely FREE!