Article published on December 29th 2011 | Travel

Action Car and Truck Accessories has been helping you customize your ride for nearly thirty years. We started off manufacturing truck bed liners, tonneau covers and truck caps, and then we built a reputation for versatility by branching into van accessories, car accessories, commercial accessories and pretty much whatever automotive accessory you could want, including custom wheels. Weâ€™re there for you when you need a trailer hitch and weâ€™ve got your back when youâ€™r ready for that lift kit.

Basically, Action Car and Truck Accessories is your go-to guys when that stock vehicle of yours needs a little extra something. Weâ€™ll even hook you up with a snow plow if thatâ€™s what youâ€™re in some floor mats to save you from that detail job come springtime.

Speaking of snow plows and floor mats, winterâ€™s just around the corner. Unless you ski, snowboard or you really like sleigh rides, youâ€™re probably looking forward to snow covered roads like youâ€™re looking forward to catching frostbite at the gas pump.

The good news? Action Car and Truck Accessories is officially offering winter rims and tires. These arenâ€™t like the other custom wheels youâ€™ve known and loved in our showrooms for so long. These winter tires give you traction in perilous winter conditions â€“ so you wonâ€™t be fishtailing your way to work.

A common misconception is that all-season tires are just as effective in the winter-time as snow tires. Action Car and Truck Accessories would like to offer some insight and give you our run-down on winter tire know-how.

One difference between all-seasons and a winter-tire is a tiny pictograph of a snowflake inside of a mountain. This means the Rubber Manufacturerâ€™s Association and Rubber Association of Canada have approved this tire specifically for winter use.

This pictograph is important because it ensures that that specific tire meets strict standards of rubber composition and treads design for winter conditions. Basically, these tires are less likely to stiffen up in cold weather and, thanks to their chunky treads; slush and snow wonâ€™t be an issue.

Another misconception is that owning a 4WD vehicle just as good as owns a set of certified snow tires. Driving a 4WD vehicle in the winter might help get you out of a ditch â€“ but it wonâ€™t be much help if you canâ€™t control your vehicle. Snow tires give you the traction you need to control your vehicle and avoid sliding into a ditch in the first place.
