Best Hotels Near Birmingham Airport by Brad Canan

Article published on June 5th 2012 | Travel

Birmingham Airport (earlier known as Birmingham International Airport) is the second busiest airports in the UK and is a very popular airport. It supports domestic flights across Great Britain and also across Europe, Asia and to the Caribbean and North America hence it is the gateway to lots of destinations far and wide and remains busy throughout the year.

An international airport or any busy airport is never complete without hotels nearby which can accommodate passenger needs. Luckily, Birmingham Airport has lots of nice hotels within easy reach which is convenient for passengers stopping here. The hotels come complete with parking facilities and you don't have to worry about the safety of your vehicle when you avail of the option of leaving your vehicle here and picking it up after your travel.

These hotels are a good option for transit travelers or locals who do not want to take chances with their flights and ensure that they board on time. They also provide great relaxation for people coming in after long journeys or those with connecting flights from the airport and have hours to spare before their next flight. Some hotels are located within the airport itself and others in the nearby surrounding areas.

The best include the following:

The Coventry Hill hotel: is a two star hotel best for a comfortable night before catching your flight. It is only a few miles from the airport and in a very good location. Some of the amenities you get in this hotel include a restaurant, room service and a color TV.

The Birmingham Corus hotel: A three star hotel a few miles from this busy airport, this hotel's location is excellent. The conveniences and facilities include a swimming pool, a gym that is fully equipped and also a restaurant. It is a great hotel choice, whether you're only looking for hotels near Birmingham airport in time for an early flight or whether you're coming in from a long journey and need to rest before you catch your connecting flight.

The Birmingham Crowne Plaza hotel: This is a four star hotel and it is located at only five minutes' drive from Birmingham Airport. It offers transport services via a minibus shuttle service that runs every 15 minutes thereby ensuring that you get to the airport on time. It is a luxury hotel with everything any traveler could need before/after a flight.
