Caravan Park holidays are the classic British vacation for a reason. They offer activities the entire family can enjoy, such as nature walks, bike rides and swimming. Some parks have both indoor and outdoor swimming pools or are located right on the coast, giving you the option to dip your toes directly in the sea. They are also affordable, as caravans provide a comfortable setting where you can share a relaxing space with your family in a self-catering environment. Most parks have a grocery store on site or nearby so you can cook meals just as you would at home.

Sunnybrae Caravan Park in Oban, Scotland is perfect if you like a peaceful setting with spectacular scenery. The caravans are set right on the shore of Cuan Sound so you can look out your window and spot the seals, dolphins, otters and other sea animals yourself. The park is a great place for couples looking for some peace and quiet as well as families seeking a natural playground for their children where they take part in activities such as fishing and wildlife watching.

Vale of Pickering Caravan Park in North Yorkshire is a 5-star caravan park and itâ€™s easy to see why. The facilities provided include a launderette, washroom and shop and there are lots of activities available for kids, including a play area and football pitch. You can even camp here so donâ€™t forget to pack your tent!

Lydstep Beach Caravan Park in South Wales is another top-rated retreat. If you like jet skiing or kayaking then this is the place for you. Thereâ€™s also a heated indoor pool for those who prefer more sedate activities. South Wales is known for its gorgeous sea views and landscape and Lydstep fulfills this expectation and more.

There are even adult-only caravan parks if youâ€™re looking for a place to go with your partner or a group of friends. Lonely Farm in Suffolk offers both caravan and camping sites for adults. This highly-rated park welcomes dogs too and is said to provide a relaxed atmosphere. Jolly Common Caravan Park, in the small village of Huttoft near the east coast of England, is also adult-only and boasts a stocked fishing lake as well as various birds, including a barn owl.

Thus, no matter who in your family tree youâ€™re planning on bringing with you on holiday, you'll find a caravan park is the perfect environment for alll. Itâ€™s the perfect solution to the never-ending question of where to go on holiday this summer so get out there and enjoy!
