Delhi Metro Rail - Making Travel a Breeze by Vikas Purohit

Article published on July 1st 2012 | Travel

Delhi Metro Rail Corp Ltd was registered on 03-05-95 under the Companies Act. Today Delhi Metro is one of the fastest transit systems, serving Delhi, Gurgaon, Noida and Ghaziabad. One of the most notable features of this transport system is that it is one of the largest metro networks in the world, consisting of six lines with a total length of 189.63 kms with more than 142 metro stations operating Yellow Line, Blue Line, Airport Express, Violet Line and Red Line. To know more you can contact them on the Delhi Metro helpline no. on their website.

Delhi Metro is a world-class metro. Other transport systems in Delhi don't have the high safety standards that Delhi Metro provides. Delhi Metro is equipped with the most modern communication and train control system ensuring reliability and safety in train operations. The coaches are air-conditioned and tickets are issued through Automatic Fare Collection System, a system introduced first time in India. Unlike waiting for more than 30 minutes for your bus or train to arrive, Delhi Metro is available at three minutes frequency. Entries and exits to metro stations are controlled by flap-doors operated by 'smart-cards' and contact less tokens. For ease of commuters, sufficient numbers of escalators are installed at metro stations.

Another one of a kind feature of Delhi Metro is that it has integrated itself with other modes of public transport, which helps commuters to easily interchange from one transport mode to another. Also a big boon to most travelers to and from Delhi is the Airport Express. Being a capital city it attracts a huge number of domestic and international travellers. Delhi traffic can be quite punishing and reaching the airport or going to other important bus or train terminals can be quite hectic. However the Airport Express connects important junctions such as New Delhi railway station and Dhaula Kuan, which provides convenience to North Indian passengers bound for IGI Airport for International and domestic flights. Delhi Airport Metro Express line provides world class experience akin to Bangkok Airport rail link, Hong Kong airport express, London tube and the like. The DMRC also operates the Delhi Metro customer care number where travelers can ask queries, make comments and give suggestions.

Through their website or through the Delhi Metro helpline you can find details about the train timings, the fares, the station numbers, parking and so on and so forth. The Metro is truly a pleasurable mode of travel not just for the people of Delhi but people visiting the capital city too.
