Article published on December 20th 2011 | Travel

Indiaâ€™s capital and the one of the most modern metropolitan cities in the Asian continent, Delhi has an unmatched magnetic appeal that hasnâ€™t withered for centuries inspite of the city being destroyed and rebuilt more than thirteen times in a span of a millennium. No wonder millions of tourists search for cheap flights to Delhi to explore a city that has shown a remarkable degree of resilience and emerged stronger after every setback.

There are a lot of tourist attractions that you can see and explore in Delhi like the Humayunâ€™s Tomb, India Gate, Jantar Mantar, Parliament House, Purana Quila, Qutub Minar, Red Fort, Rashtrapati Bhavan, Delhi Zoo, Lotus Temple, AksharDham Temple, Birla Mandir, Chhattarpur Mandir, Jama Masjid, St. James Church, and Gurudwara Bangla Sahib, Lodi gardens, Mughal Gardens, Garden of Five Senses and the list is endless.

You would clearly require at least a week to explore this city exhaustively and in between your visits to tourist places, you can take time out to sample Delhiâ€™s exotic street food that is loved by one and all. Golgappas, Papri-Chat, Pao-Bhaji, Samosas, Jalebis, Paranthas, the city will pamper you no end and leave you asking for more.

As you move from one part of the city to another, keep an eye out for the markets that abound in each and every part of Delhi. Right from street markets to shopping malls, one can find articles of necessary use at every price point in this city that is mecca for shoppers. You will even love to bargain in these street markets and the most popular spot to test your negotiation skills is Janpath or â€˜Queenâ€™s Wayâ€™ as it was called in the British Era. Here you can find scores of shops selling ha crafted items, garments, souvenirs, mementoes and fast-food items and bargaining is rampant.

If you want to shop and splurge to the maximum in Delhi, we suggest you set aside a day to explore Old Delhi, where you will find narrow lanes and â€˜hole-in â€“the-wallâ€™ shops offering great bargains on gems and jewelry, garments and similar such items that are retailed at astronomical prices in upscale outlets in other parts of Delhi.

As you conclude your tour of Delhi, you will find that touring Delhi is like turning the pages of a book, where each day you will be introduced to a new aspect of the city.

So, if Delhi happens to be your holiday destination next year, then we suggest you log on to a travel portal and grab the best flight deals that offer cheap flights and tickets to Delhi.
