Influenced by the Spanish art and culture, Manila is divided into 16 districts and each one has its own identity and charm. The azure beauty of Manila Bay and its postcard sunset views give the city a canopy of colors. With hundreds of things to do and enjoy, irrespective of the time, Manila becomes one of the premier tourist destination of Asia. If you are keen interested in exploring the past of the city then Intramuros is the place for you to discover. Nicknamed as the "Walled City", this oldest historical district is packed with marvelous ancient churches and buildings. Manila also houses a number of parks and gardens for those who are looking for a soothing green space to relax. Rizal Park of Manila is not only one of the iconic symbols of the city but is also the largest urbanized park in Asia and is home of various other interesting sights of the city. Paco Park reflects the influence of Spanish colonial period while Manila Zoological and Botanical Garden is the oldest zoo in Asia. If you donâ€™t have enough time to stroll all over the city then at least visit the sites that were left after the World War II. Among these MalacaÃ±ang Palace-the present official office of Philippines' President and the Coconut Palace are top two attractions. But a trip to Manila is definitely incomplete without a visit to Manila Cathedral and paying homage at Quiapo Church. Children or family members can also go either Manila Ocean Park or Manila Zoo, two other main attractions of the city.

In night, you will see Manila in a different mood. The cityâ€™s nightlife lives up to your expectations with numerous bars, clubs and discotheques open for late night fun and entertainment. Shopping and dining is another significant reason to fall in love with this charming city of Philippines. Manila also offers great opportunities for excursion to various other regions of the country. Enjoy a canoe ride to Pagsanjan Waterfalls and have a enthralling experience of natureâ€™s beauty. Similarly a short trip from the capital city will take you to Tagaytay Islands where you can spot the renowned Taal Volcano. Catch flights to Manila now and give yourself a chance to fall in love with this charming city of Philippines.
