How to Choose the Perfect Hotel in London for a Weekend Away by Oliver Lee

Article published on March 28th 2012 | Travel

There is no doubt that London is one of the world's most exciting cities to stay in. If you want to have a great weekend away from home, the city is one of the best places you could choose to stay in. There are so many things to do there is no chance of getting bored!

But before you book any trip to the city you must first think about where you would like to stay. For example there are plenty of wonderful hotels near Hyde Park, but would any of these suit your needs? You should think about what you want to do while you are in London, because this can help you choose the right location to look for a hotel.

If you love the thought of checking out some of the green spaces available in the city, you should consider looking at a hotel near Lancaster Gate Underground station. This is situated on Bayswater Road immediately to the north of Hyde Park itself. You could also stay in one of the hotels near Hyde Park and have an equally good view of the park if your room points in the right direction.

This is an important point to note when looking at hotels. You should consider what type of room you want to have and whether you want to have a good view out of the window. Even if your hotel is on a popular road, there is nothing to say your room will face in that direction. Always check when booking if this is important to you.

Another way to narrow down your choices is to look at how many stars each hotel has. You may have a preference to go with a three or four star hotel for example. You can then eliminate all the ones that don't meet with these requirements. You could also set your budget in advance and eliminate all the ones that don't fall within your parameters.

Regardless of whether you choose a hotel near Lancaster Gate or in another part of London altogether, you can see that there are plenty of ways to make the selection process easier on you. For instance, it is good to choose a hotel that has convenient travel links to the Underground and to local bus routes. This is especially true if you want to travel across the city.

In short, the more you think about what would make the ideal hotel for you, the easier it will be to find the best option for your needs. Whether it means saving money, finding the best spot in the city or anything else, your ideal hotel is a very personal thing.
