Seven Amazing Sights at North India by Lincoln Harris

Article published on July 16th 2012 | Travel

India is a land of many fascinating sights. Some prefer exploring the history and culture of the land while others love sightseeing beaches and snow-laden mountains. The rapid waterfalls and wildlife offer ample excitement to those who love to meet adventure head-on. If you are on a pilgrimage in this sacred land, journey through the remarkable maze of temples that run throughout the length of the country. India is blessed with a perfect blend of variety of tourist spots and is every holiday makerâ€™s dream come true. Hereâ€™s a list of what you can expect to see on your visit to fabulous Indi

Northern Hill Stations

Begin your travel in India from the tip of Kashmir. Blessed with beautiful mountains, plant and animal life, this state has aptly been described as heaven on earth. Enjoy boating in the â€˜Shikarasâ€™ o Dal Lake. From here, venture out on to the magnificent Himalayas. Here you can appreciate the flora and fauna thatâ€™s typical of lower altitudes and further up you will be mesmerized by the snow coated peaks. If you love a quest, go skiing, hiking or even trekking. Those fascinated by mountain climbing can venture to climb up the highest peak. Next you can explore the hill towns of Manali and Kullu, Shimla and Dalhousie where beauty and ageless elegance comes to a standstill. Down south, the hill stations that warrant attention are Ooty, Panchgani, Kodaikanal, Mahabaleshwar, Nainital and Darjeeling. Remember to carry sufficient numbers of woolens, jackets, warm head gear and appropriate wear so that you donâ€™t shell out a lot of money on buying warm clothes for visiting these places.

Amazing Rajasthan and Delhi

Rajasthan- the city of forts and palaces is rightly called the imperial state of India. This part of India presents itself with vibrant colors, rich traditions and scrumptious cuisines. Be sure to visit the mighty citadels of Jaipur and Udaipur. Jaipur-the pink city is the highlight of your Rajasthan tour and donâ€™t miss out on the camel rides and desert safaris here. Visit Bikaner-the house of Indian sweets which is also famous for camel breeding centers and related research. Your trip to India is incomplete without discovering the countryâ€™s capital city-Delhi. Make the most of your Delhi travel by shopping at the city centers, trying out delectable Indian gastronomies and bargaining on the streets. Here, the places of attraction are Qutub Minar, Humayun's Tomb, India Gate, Old Fort, President House, Red Fort, Jama Masjid, Rajpath and the Lotus Temple.
