Visitors to the lovely area of Margaret River, just 3 hours drive south of Perth, usually want to look around the area, visit some vineyards and generally enjoy what the region has to offer. But if you try to do such things on your own with no knowledge of the region you are quite likely to miss out on something really good. It is much better to go on one of the Margaret River Tours organised by those who know the area like the back of their hand and can advise and show you what is available.

The trouble is that many tours end up being rather like a fast bus ride through the area. You donâ€™t really want to be in a crowd that is shunted from one stop to the next, always in a hurry to get to the next stop. When you are on holidays you need to be able to relax and enjoy yourself. This is exactly what you can do with Margaret River Wine Tours.

Margaret River Winery Tours are special in that they are only for small groups. Seven is the maximum number in the group â€“ sometimes many less. You can go on a tour like this with just one other person and still be treated as if you were the most important people in the world. In fact, it is like visiting attractions with a good friend rather than a tour operator.

These tours take you to wineries that you would probably not be able to find by yourself. Additionally, many scenic attractions are included in the tour â€“ and you can choose what time of day and how many hours the tour will be for. You may choose an early tour that includes breakfast, or perhaps a tour that starts rather later and includes dinner overlooking the Indian Ocean would be more to your liking.
