Cannes Airport Restaurants and Eating by Lek Boonlert

Article published on November 29th 2011 | Travel Tips

When flying into the Nice Cote dâ€™Azur Airport near Cannes, France, youâ€™ll have many dining option from which to choose. Whether you prefer a multi-course meal at a sit-down restaurant or a shorter stop at a bar, the airport can accommodate you. There are also locations serving snacks, coffee, and light vending items that you can eat on the go. Cannes Airport hotels also offer dining options once youâ€™re away from the airport itself.

In Terminal 1, sit down and dine at Le Riviera, a large, elegant restaurant and bar combination that specialises in regional Mediterranean fare. Specialty pizzas, fresh produce and salads, soups, sandwiches and fully-prepared meals are available, as are fine regional wines. In Terminal 2 youâ€™ll find Le Badiane, which includes a restaurant, bar and lounge. Bright and modern, parts of the restaurant can be used for your family gathering or business meeting. Try the 30-minute Express Menu or a full lunch.

For faster fare, both terminals offer bars for a quicker stop. Terminal 1 offers 4 bars to choose from and Terminal 2 has six choices. In Terminal 1 try Le Murphyâ€™s, an Irish pub in the heart of France. Or if youâ€™re in Terminal 2, stop by the Comptoir Quotidien for a hot or cold drink or a light snack. All the bars and pubs have chairs and tables for you to sit at, with plenty of room for your luggage beside you.

And donâ€™t forget the snack stands for a quick bite. Ouishop, Quick, Paul and Le Cours Massena are scattered conveniently throughout both Terminals, so even if youâ€™re in a hurry you donâ€™t have to starve.
