

Article published on July 2nd 2012 | Travel Tips

Cheap frequent flight facility has made it very convenient for tourists to travel to different tourist destinations. With Mumbai and Delhi being major commercial centers of the country and Goa being the major tourist attraction, flight network to and from these places is very satisfactory. Tourists save time on travel while keeping the tour under their budget cap.

When you go on a tour, much of your time is taken up in to and fro travel from your city of residence to the tourist destination. Farther the holiday spot from your home, more will be the time taken to reach it. For a person living in Chennai, reaching Delhi by train and then taking further transport to reach Manali or Shimla can take around two to three days, at least. So, unless you want to spend almost five to six days simply on travel, you should choose the smart option and go in for air travel. But is air travel not expensive? Is it worth the cost? Flight costs these days have come down to a great extent and considering the time you save, the choice is definitely preferable. Also, when you spend so much time on travel, you tend to be exhausted and cannot enjoy your holiday very much. On the whole, air travel is a good decision.

Goa is a great place to go on a holiday. It is also one of the most visited tourist destination in the country. The place witnesses enormous tourist population from all over the world. So, it is only natural for Goa to be very well connected by excellent airways network. The airport of Goa is located in Dabolim and is maintained by the defense forces.

There are direct flights from Goa to Delhi and all other major airports in the country. International tourists can fly down to Delhi or Mumbai and take a direct flight to Goa. There are regular flights to Mumbai from Goa. There are several low cost airlines which operate within the country. Flight frequency depends on the season. When it is tourist season on Goa, between October and March, the number Delhi and Mumbai flights which operation to Goa are higher.

In order to save money on your air travel, you can opt to buy tickets for a roundabout trip. The chances of getting a discount are higher when you book two way tickets in flights from Goa to Delhi and vice versa. In fact, with some low cost airlines, the cost turns out to be just a little more than an air conditioned second class train ticket. Another way to save money on Mumbai flights is to make the reservation well ahead of the impending date of departure. Last minute tickets are expensive most of the times. The third way to have a cost effective trip is to get in touch with an efficient tour operator. By buying an all inclusive package, you not only get discounts on flights to Mumbai, but can also save money on hotel stay and local travel at the holiday destination.

Online booking can be availed for flights to Mumbai from any part of the country or flights from Goa to Delhi. With such easy Mumbai flights facility available, travelling to and from Goa is a true pleasure. What is more, you get more time to explore Goa since you save a lot of travel time. You can visit more beaches, more beach parties, more heritage structures and best of all, you get more time to sample the delicious Goan food.

Article Source:

<http://www.articleside.com/travel-tips-articles/convenience-of-air-travel-now-better-than-ever.htm> -
Article Side

Archi Mehra - About Author:

For cost effective tickets in a Mumbai flights and a flights from Goa to Delhi, contact a good travel agent. With cheap air travel provision, you can enjoy your holiday better. a Flights to Mumbai run on regular durations so, finding a cost effective ticket should not be a problem.

Article Keywords:

Mumbai flights, flights from Goa to Delhi, flights to Mumbai

You can find more free articles on Article Side. Sign up today and share your knowledge to the community! It is completely FREE!