Article Side

Happy hours for the domestic tour operators by Tilak Josi

Article published on July 3rd 2012 | Travel Tips

Tourism is the actual backbone as well as support system of our Indian hospitality service industry. It alone contributes a chunk of revenue the fill up our public coffers. The nation has an unbelieving population of a 100 million. As per official data, the amount of net transaction in India from its domestic tourism alone was 740 million USD as back as in 2008. Domestic tourism, as it has been defined, involves residents or citizens of a given country when travel only within that country. Thus, the importance of tourism industry is shaping our economy can easily be understood. Along with the revenue it generates, tourism provides a livelihood for hundreds and thousands of people in our society. A tour operator is an integral part of the entire tourism business. This person shoulders the overall responsibility of coordination among all the associated elements of a tour operation. Starting right from preparing the itinerary, these people are responsible for making the trip hassle free and pleasantly memorable for the guests. They arrange the different modes of conveyance including booking air and train tickets with reservations for the guests, accommodating their boarding at different locations on a trip etc. A plenty of hassles and list of odd jobs these professionals need to perform to satisfy their clients. The volume of business being huge and according to the financial speculations, it will grow by leaps and bounds in the coming years. The domestic tour operators have to work out all these factors in order to make their guests enjoy a smooth and hassle free trip. A tour operator in Kolkata has to fix up hundreds of such tiny odd jobs in order to make their clients satisfied.

India is the ancient land of religion and mysticism. Therefore, a large share of our domestic tourism revolves around the religious shrines and holy sites. Places like Shirdi, Ajmer Sharif, Benares, Bodh Gaya, Kamakhya and Puri etc. are some of the most popular sites for pilgrimage as well as tourism. Apart from these, there are exactly an infinite number of other popular and widely visited shrines all over the country. People flock in all these places throughout the year. There are again plenty of favorite holiday destinations all over the country. Places like Goa, the entire Northeast, Darjeeling, Rajasthan, Kerala etc. have tremendous appeal among our domestic tourists. These places make good business in terms of tourism every year. The domestic tour operators in the country make handsome profit by catering to their clients travelling to these exquisite spots. During peak seasons, the crowd and the business that these tourist spots rake in is huge. The sector of tour operator in Kolkata has grown in numbers. People of this great city love to travel to distant places and enrich the contrasting cultures. Therefore, the prospect of this business in Kolkata is huge. With a competitive market open to all, the tourism business has turned into a challenging profession. This has proved advantageous to this business as the benchmark of professionalism and quality of service being provided to the clients both have gone up.

Article Source:
http://www.articleside.com/travel-tips-articles/happy-hours-for-the-domestic-tour-operators.htm - Article Side

Tilak Josi - About Author:
The author is an insider among the a domestic tour operators in the city. Wearing the hat of a a tour operator in Kolkata over years, he knows every turns and the bents in the industry. to enjoy more such articles by him, kindly visit: a www.junglewood.co.in

Article Keywords:
domestic tour operators, tour operator in kolkata

You can find more free articles on Article Side. Sign up today and share your knowledge to the community! It is completely FREE!