Article published on November 26th 2011 | Travel Tips

There are so many things to do in Thailand. To ensure that your trip would not be wasted, check for the right places to visit. Plan your trip ahead so when you get there, you only have to locate the places you had in mind. Here are a few suggestions to help you out on your vacation to Thailand.

Elephant Adventure

Before getting into an elephant ride through the dense jungles of Thailand, you can enjoy a river cruise across one of the worldâ€™s well-maintained rivers. In Thailand, elephants have been used as transportations for many years. For a lot of tourists, their adventure to Thailand wouldnâ€™t be complete without an elephant ride and learning how to care for these gentle creatures.

Speed Boat Cruising

Speed boat rides are offered to those who want to visit the different islands in this tropical country and also to see the exciting places within it. Ride on a speed boat and get to Phang Nga Bay to get a good view of limestone caves and cliffs, tropical beaches and lagoons-these are breathtaking sights that make you remember Thailand as a truly nature-blessed place.

Grand Palace Visits

There are so many things to do in Thailand but one of the things that you should fail to do is visit Grand Palace in Bangkok. The architectural design of Grand Palace is a fusion of traditional Thai and European influences and it holds the famed 45-centimeter Emerald Buddha placed in the Temple of the emerald Buddha or the Wat Phra Kaew.

Underwater Adventures

Visit Koh Tao for snorkeling adventures. The country holds breathtaking underwater sceneries and taking a look at it is one of the things to do in Thailand if you want to fall in love with it. The diving spot of Koh Tao is blessed by nature with rich marine life with invigorating color that would make you appreciate nature even more.

Pump The Adrenalin

You can feel the pumping of your adrenalin by getting into white water rafting. If you want adventure that involves the environment, got to Phuket. You and a group of friends can experience fun adventure together by taking a ride on the wild river of Phang Nga.
