The ancient city of Pompeii is home to one of the world's most devastating volcanic eruptions, when Mount Vesuvius blew up around AD79. Now, a famous archeological site, people all over the world flock to visit the ruins of this historic place through guided Pompeii group tours. If you love digging up history and have a flair for undertaking an adventure laden trip, the mysterious city of Pompeii is simply perfect.

Sights at Pompeii

Besides the antique archeological sites at Pompeii, the city is also famous for the Santuario Della Madonna Del Rosario and the Piazza Barolo Longo. These religious centers devoted to Madonna are pretty attractive and top the list of Pompeii group tours. The ornately decorated sanctuary is worth visiting as well. Equip yourself well with a hat, a snug pair of shoes, lots of drinking water and sunscreen with high SPF amounts as you set out on Pompeii tours.

Advice to First Timers

The minute you pay the ticket fare, you are left to decide whether to opt for guided tours or visit the place independently. If you are a novice to Pompeii, guided Pompeii tours are a good idea. However, ensure that youâ€™re pockets are not wiped clean with unofficial guides who are out to make a quick buck. If you are doubtful about a guide, it could be a scam. Thatâ€™s why you should exercise ample caution and verify their credentials in advance. Pompeii group tours generally last for one hour. Be sure to generously tip your guide at the end of it only if you feel comfortable. Donâ€™t be pressured to rush through the tour and leave as soon as it comes to an end. You can revisit anything which sparked up interest and wander around the magnificent ruins again.

Book a Slot at Once

As visitors are multiplying by the minute, you would do well by getting ahead of the flock. Just browse company websites that undertake Pompeii tours check the rates and compare. Get hold of an official guidebook for detailed information with photographs and itineraries. This helps you plan well in advance plus youâ€™ll know what to expect. You would do well by keeping a check list in hand so that you that you can refer to it incase youâ€™ve forgotten something important.
