If you have decided to travel due to some official meeting in some other state or you have to attend some ceremonies then you should definitely start with planning your travels. This means that you also have to take care of the mode of travel and also get your hands on the tickets. When it comes to travelling pan India, there are different modes of travel. You can travel by air or you can move around in a bus. Let us discuss all of these modes one by one and understand their pros and cons so that you can have a gala vacation at your destination.

Starting with air travel, you can fly across to the major metro and small cities in the country. Now there are new airports coming up in different cities and therefore air travel is becoming extremely popular with each passing day. Travelling by air is no longer considered dangerous and that is why an increasing number of people are opting this way of travel. Other than flying which is reliable, fast but still expensive, there are other modes of travel as well. This includes travelling by buses and is explained below.

When it comes to travelling by buses, this mode should be chosen when you have to travel to rural areas or the places where you cannot reach by airplanes. Hence it is better to travel by buses and it is surely an inexpensive way of travel to. But the extreme weather and travelling in unhygienic conditions can sure be a turn off for many. This leads us to the next mode that is travelling by Rajdhani trains. These trains take you to almost all the major cities and areas where you can have business in. Jammu Tawi Rajdhani is the most famous of them and mentioned below is the way by which you can get your hands on the tickets.

For booking tickets rail booking online is the way to go. It is the online website where you can check details like the arrival and departure of a train. You can also check the availability of trains and reserve tickets as per your convenience. Jammu Tawi Rajdhani is the most sought after train so you might have to keep a close watch on its tickets. Rail booking online has definitely changed the way tickets were booked online and now you can reach your destination without delay.
