Article published on December 1st 2011 | Travel Tips

A work permit UK offers an entry route into the United Kingdom for skilled workers who are citizens of countries outside of the European economic area. To be eligible you must have a job offer and fulfill requirements. A work permit can be issued for any period between 1 month and 60 months. The period depends on the length of the time requested by the sponsoring company. Changing employers require another application to be made before starting work. Tier 2 replaced the work permit UK. If you want to extend your leave to remain in the UK you should switch into tier 2 visa.

To be eligible for a work permit uk you require to have a degree or a higher diploma level qualification which is relevant to the position on offer or an HND qualification plus 1 year relevant work experience or no degree and 3 years of work experience. Work permit holder partner may apply for entry clearance as a dependant provided you are married to your partner or have a civil relationship. You and your partner must demonstrate that you intend to live together in the UK. The partner is allowed to seek employment in the United Kingdom.

Tier 2 also replaced the existing of sports people and minister of religion categories for those who were last granted leave as nurse or mid wife, student union sabbatical posts, researchers, training and work experience schemes, Jewish agencies employees, fresh talent working in Scotland, a person writing up a thesis, a post graduate doctor or dentist, a student and tier 1 migrant.

You can travel to the UK as long as you have a valid visa which will allow you to live and work in UK. There are different categories that can allow you to work in UK which include the following. You can work in the UK if you have been offered a job and your prospective employer is willing to sponsor you and work as a skilled worker.

You may also be allowed to work in UK as youth mobility, if an employer sponsors you for a short period and be a temporary worker. You can apply to work in the united kingdom as a domestic worker as the sole representative of an overseas company or as a representative of a foreign newspaper or as a broadcasting organization. If you are from a commonwealth country and at least one of your grandparents was born in the UK, you can apply to work in the United Kingdom.

Article Source:
http://www.articleside.com/travel-tips-articles/work-permit-and-work-in-uk.htm - Article Side

Francis - About Author:
Francis is a professional SEM/SEO,link builder and article writer who writes on different niches.a
http://globalvisas.net.au/countries/

Article Keywords:
work permit UK, work in UK, work permit

You can find more free articles on Article Side. Sign up today and share your knowledge to the community! It is completely FREE!