Kerala is termed as paradise dear to God by some because of the measure of bounties of nature it is blessed with. Kerala is situated in the Malabar coast of south western India. This verdant piece of land is nestled between Western Ghats and Arabian Sea. With its pristine beaches, mist shrouded hill stations, placid backwaters, exotic flora and fauna, verdant landscape and sophisticated art forms Kerala has established its place as a premier tourism destination.

Alleppey, also known as Alappuzha is a place worthy of the reputation of Kerala. It is renowned for its picturesque canals, backwaters, beaches and lagoons. Boat races, houseboats, coir products and fish add attractiveness to already seductive Alleppey.

Alleppey is blessed with a beautiful beach. The garden on the shore makes it look even more charming. Towering presence of colonial past is alive on the shore via ancient structures. There is a pier which extends into sea which is more than one hundred and forty years old. Dense coconut groves cover one end of beach while on other end is ancient towering light house.

Backwater tourism is perhaps the most attractive part of Kerala tourism. Alleppey is the epicenter of backwater tourism. Backwater is a unique Kerala phenomenon. It is formed by canals and inlets of manmade and natural origins, estuaries of over forty rivers and five lakes. As is the wont of backwaters, Alleppey backwater also makes for exquisite setting. The shores are adorned with monuments, swaying coconut trees, emerald landscape and lush green paddy fields, fishing nets and various activities of human drama. Backwaters are marked by green vegetation and water flowers. Houseboats are now the icons of backwater tourism and Alleppey provides plenty of opportunity for Houseboat cruises.

Kuttanad a place where cultivation is done below sea level is known as ‘Rice Bowl of Kerala’. It is endowed with unending stretch of paddy fields, small streams and canals lined with lush green coconut trees. A cruise through these waterways is a memorable affair.

Many boat races are conducted in Alleppey during August and September. The boats like Chundan, Iruttukuthi, Vypu, Churulan etc. used for these races are special and attractive. The Nehru Trophy Boat race conducted in Punnamada Lake is an internationally acclaimed event.

Due to these attractions and much more Alleppey is fast becoming a hot tourism destination. Catering to the increasing inflow of tourists, many hotels have come up in Alleppey. Alleppey hotels are renowned for the excellent accommodation facilities they provide. Visitors have only compliments for the staff who encounter guests with a disarming smile and all the warmth and hospitality. The rooms provided are luxurious, spacious and adorned with modern décor. Alleppey hotels are adjoined with Multi cuisine restaurants which provide sumptuous menu in various styles.

Apart from all these hotels provide hot and cold water running round the clock, Banquet hall, conference hall, meeting hall, amenities for indoor and outdoor games, Doctors on call, twenty four hours security, spacious parking facilities and travel desk services.

Budget hotels in Alleppey cater to tourists who travel on an economic purse. The important thing to note is that they do not compromise on the quality of accommodation facilities and service offered.

Due to nearness to sea, Alleppey climate in summer is hot and humid. During October and November Alleppey is fairly cool and pleasant.
