

Article published on February 21st 2012 | Web Design

It is said that the first step is usually the most difficult. It is so because one has to do this all by oneself, unaided and unassisted. There is apprehension and anxiety but it lasts only so long as that first step is not taken. Thereafter the process simplifies, confidence is generated and one knows how to make the future moves. In the world of business too, this rule applies. Small and medium enterprises venture into business with the desire to become large MNCs. Most often there is no mentoring agency to support such enterprises. It is during their infancy that SME need support which is usually illusory. This is the time they need to create a niche for themselves in the market—but many fail owing to their inability to garner the right guidance. With, Pixel Avatar however, this illusion is turning into a bright certainty.

With technology making giant strides, it has become imperative for SME to make their presence felt in the web world as well. Pixel Avatar, a branch out of Pixel Studios, is an organization that assures to give each SME a corporate identity of its own. This identity is created by means of creating and designing websites, brochures, logo, business cards, advertisements and maintaining the web content of the SME. Pixel Avatar is your reliable web partner which understands your business requirements and to achieve this end, provides strong and trustworthy online and offline support model backed up by its professional and qualified web experts.

Pixel Avatar is not just any online design agency. It is the platform that connects your brand to the customers through digital communications and has been doing so effectively since the last decade. Clients swear by the quality and class of work done by Pixel Avatar's™ band of competent and expert web designers. The emphasis on quality and hard work is what sets this web design company apart from the others in this field. Pixel Avatar understands that while advertising and promotion of a brand, especially if it is an SME, is important. However, such organizations also have limited resources at their disposal. Hence, their corporate communication needs have to be highly customized. It is to assist the digital communication needs of such SME; Pixel Avatar has come up with a service called "one page business website"™.

As is evident from the name, this service creates a website design of a single page, but which is all-inclusive and comprehensive. Besides, being economically viable, such a website occupies less space and is therefore, uploaded within seconds. A website that takes ages to load is sure to put off a person visiting it. With one page website this is not a concern at all. Further, a visitor or prospective customer will be able to find all the required information, including contact information instantly and all at one place. This makes navigation easy and is bound to make a positive impact. The webpage designing should be done cautiously and by experts in the field so as to prevent any disparity between the clients'™ demands and the end product. The design and the logo should match. Further, being a single page, the maintenance of the website is also very convenient.

There is little doubt that SME need exposure and a bridge to connect with the target audience. Their requirements for expansion are much the same as those of large businesses, only on a smaller scale. Hence, they need a trustworthy and reliable service provider who is well aware of the technicalities of the web design field and has sufficient experience as well. Yes, Pixel Avatar fits the bill perfectly.

Article Source:

<http://www.articleside.com/web-design-articles/one-page-business-website.htm> - Article Side

Thomasjefferson - About Author:

The author is a a web design India professional who has reviewed various events and happenings in the website design world. The author has also a creative web design company with a website design Chennai. The prime objective of the author is to impart the awareness and knowledge about web design services/packages/price in the minds of new flash Website designers India, and business entrepreneurs and designers.

Article Keywords:

Flash website design, website Design Company, Website design Chennai, web design India, web design Chennai, web design service, web design package, web design price.

You can find more free articles on Article Side. Sign up today and share your knowledge to the community! It is completely FREE!