In the current digital age, capturing photos and sharing them with relatives and friends is made easier with websites offering the service of share pictures instantly. Internet users can well place their favorite pictures for view to anyone with the help of digital cameras, photo editing software programs and with these sites. Uploading of pictures on these sites can be done with the help of free image hosting sites. Picture sharing can be done in a jiffy and by uploading images they can be shared instantly with friends and relatives.

Even there are sites offering the facility of not only uploading pictures, but also the facility to earn money to their visitors. These websites offer the facility of cheapest sharing of images without the requirement of purchasing or renting a server for the internet users. Without registration these sites are offering the facility of hosting of pictures without any charge. Even though, these sites have limited functionality, they can support all types of hosting beginning with marketing and going until a simple image sharing.

When it comes to free web hosts, there are two options to the service provider and they are either to offer a directory or a sub domain. On the other hand, paid service always offers a second level domain along with hosting. Even there are some free hosting providers that offer the facility of using separately purchased domain to the user.

Free image hosting sites enable the individuals to upload pictures to their website and the images uploaded are then saved onto the server of the service provider. The person, who has loaded the pictures, will then be provided with different types of codes in such a way that he can permit his friends and relatives to view the images. These service providers have the potential to identify the places where the pictures are being used and whenever an image is viewed, it will register the date and the internet address of the computer of the person, who viewed the image.

In the case of spam mails, the message generally include a unique URL, which is used as the tracking ID in such a way that the site can easily identify whether the message has been viewed only by the intended recipient. So, these sites not only offer the facility to share pictures instantly, but also several other benefits are offered with respect to the protection of the images of the users.
