Our movies and romance novels have also highlighted the picture perfect bridal look and hairstyles are an important part of that. Bridal hairstyles involve intricate hairdos that frame the face of the bride in the most elegant manner and compliment her dress beautifully. These styles add grace to the brideâ€™s look.

For an Indian bride, her hair is amongst her most prized assets. Indian men have a clear fetish for long hair, which means there are so many hairstyle options for the Indian brides. Here, we have listed the most popular bridal makeup hairstyles.

French Twist: This is amongst the most popular classic styles and is very much in vogue. The hair is pulled up and tucked into a neat bun with the flicks and bangs side-swept into it. This is also a very comfortable hairstyle if you want to don on a bridal veil.

Chignon: Chignons make beautiful bridal as well as bridesmaids hairstyles. The hair is knotted into a bun at the nape with soft curls framing the face. Again, very convenient hair arrangement for balancing the bridal veil.

Beehive: Brides in their higher 20s opt for this hairstyle because it gives them a very formal yet elegant look. It adds height to the overall appearance and looks really classy. It has lacquered layers of hair piled atop one another in a way that it resembles a beehive. The bridal tiara sits beautifully between the accentuated hive and the forehead.

Half up â€“ half down: If you are looking for bridal shower hairstyles, then half-up is the answer to your prayers. This hairdo is a beautiful combination of style and grace. You can pin up a part of your hair and let the other half cascade down your back in heavy curls. Soft tendrils around the face make you look very youthful and innocent.

Bouffant: It is a very classy hairdo and was amongst the most popular bridal hairstyles 2011. It is very different from the beehive and half-up as it has hair falling on the sides in beautiful waves. It can also be used for bridesmaids hairstyles.

Weâ€™ve listed the most popular bridal hairstyles. This is not an exhaustive list. You can also try the classic bun or the traditional up do. The point is to make sure that the hairstyle suits your personality and makeup. You need not always go for bridal makeup hairstyles done by experts. If you think you can manage a nice hairdo on your own, then go for it and save some really big bucks. Also remember that your hairdo must be according to the type of hair you have. If there is time for your wedding, then consult a hair expert and see if you can try something new for your wedding. Itâ€™s your big day. Make the most of it...
