Article published on June 21st 2012 | Weddings

There are many types of greetings cards and wedding cards you would send to a couple celebrating their big day. Wedding cards range from acceptance or with regret cards confirming your attendance to the wedding day or evening party, to the newlyweds wedding cards or on the day wedding cards, congratulations wedding cards, and thank you wedding cards. In addition the wedding couple may send save the date wedding cards to their guests before the wedding invitations confirming the final venue, date and time details of the wedding. The wedding couple may send may also send special thank you wedding cards to the wedding party and guests customised to specific relations such as parents, siblings, groomsmen, maids flower girls and page boys. Thank you wedding cards are special tokens to thank their guests and the wedding party for helping them celebrate their special day.

To some, wedding cards are more personal than expensive gifts as wedding cards adds the personal touch. The wedding cards design should be thoughtful, relevant and personal to the both the receiver and giver. The image on the front of the wedding cards shows how much effort has been made to pick out the perfect wedding cards therefore it is important to choose one that the wedding couple or wedding guest will enjoy. You can write as much or as little in the wedding cards expressing your sincere congratulations, joy and well wishes. If you are struggling to find the right words to write in the wedding cards, there are many examples of beautiful wedding cards wording available on the internet which range from short poems or tear jerking and heart warming messages. However your personal message in the wedding cards should be fairly easily if the words come from the heart and your inner feelings. Some wedding cards are already printed with the perfect messaging.
