Honeymoon Wedding List for Marriage Gifts by Julia Roger

Article published on June 12th 2012 | Weddings

The concept of honeymoon wedding list is more or less similar to normal wedding list. In this type of list the soon to be wedded couple makes a list of preferred gifts that they wish to receive from their wedding guests. This is basically a service that is provided by a retailer or a website. Some of the retailers charge a nominal service for this and few provide this service free of cost. The gifts that you receive through the honeymoon wedding lists are completely yours and the service provider does not have any share in it. You can choose from wide range of items that you have enlisted in your gift registry. This gift registry or list is really a unique concept in the developed countries and people enjoy creating this special list for their special day in life.

This list is a very unique concept and also helps both guests as well as couples to make their choice. The guests do not get confused as to what should they gift the newly married couple and the couple too can choose a gift that they want as well as they can keep away the unwanted items as gifts. The auto update feature of the gift registry help avoiding the repetition of the gifts. This concept is very popular in the western countries. Almost every getting to wed couple uses this registry for their marriage.

There are many service providers who provide the gift registry service for free. However, there are few service providers who charges for providing the service. This is a very popular concept that is conceptualized keeping the convenience of both guests and wedding couple in mind. Although these days, this concept is mostly prevailing in the western or the developed countries, but few developing countries are also trying to implement this concept.
