These are just some of the things to consider however â€“ a good B&B is not just about the dÃ©cor and design, but also about the service, convenience and even location.

Here are a few vital things to consider when choosing your bed and breakfast establishment.

â€¢ Location â€“ as the old adage goes, location is everything. This is especially true when it comes to accommodation. Ideally, you want a central location that is close to shops, supermarkets, restaurants and other facilities, so that you donâ€™t have to venture too far to go out for a meal or take in the sights. Having to drive a good distance to get from your accommodation to the nearest restaurant puts a damper on any holiday, so a conveniently situated B&B is always important.

Setting â€“ another important factor when choosing durban wedding is the setting. A garden environment is always welcoming, with the chance to enjoy beautiful views when you wake up in the morning. Private patios in a pretty garden setting offer the perfect place to enjoy tea or coffee before starting the dayâ€™s adventures, and go a long way in creating a good holiday mood.

â€¢ Service â€“ while B&B establishments are not like hotels, a high service level is still essential. Housekeeping should be done on a regular basis, and you should also be able to feel welcomed on your arrival. A good breakfast is an essential aspect of any B&B, so be sure to find out what you can expect before making your booking.

â€¢ Rooms â€“ one of the biggest advantages to choosing a B&B over a larger hotel is the element of privacy. These establishments offer a â€˜home from homeâ€™ type of accommodation, and as such, comfort should be provided to the highest degree. En-suite bathrooms, comfortable beds, separate entrances and other small touches ensure a pleasant stay at any B&B Hillcrest accommodationvenue.
